The research done on this Resource Book is current through October 1, 2000. This Resource Book is not intended to be an authoritative statement by the Justices of the Michigan Supreme Court regarding any of the substantive issues discussed. However, it does represent the consensus of the author and the advisory committee members regarding these issues.

Using this Resource Book

This Domestic Violence Resource Book will assist Friend of the Court staff in handling domestic relations cases where domestic violence is involved. This book contains information about:

- F The nature and dynamics of domestic violence, and the attendant safety concerns for court personnel.
- F Information-gathering and case management in cases involving domestic violence.
- F Community referral resources that provide support to abused individuals and opportunities for change to abusers.
- F The laws governing access to children and support as they apply to situations where domestic violence is present.
- F Safety concerns with alternative dispute resolution — particularly mediation — in cases involving domestic violence.
- F The relationship between criminal and personal protection actions and domestic relations cases involving the same parties.

Throughout the text, the reader will find suggestions for “promising practices” in cases where domestic violence is present. These suggestions have been included primarily to address safety concerns that arise whenever domestic violence is present in a case before a court. The “promising practices” were reviewed or suggested by the judges, court personnel, and domestic violence service providers who oversaw the drafting of this Resource Book as members of its Advisory Committee. The suggestions in this book represent the best professional judgments of the author and Advisory Committee members. They do not constitute recommendations from the Michigan Supreme Court, and should not be viewed as definitive in all cases. The Advisory Committee hopes that each local court will develop individual policies for cases involving domestic violence in consultation with members of its own community.

The legal discussion in this Resource Book is current as of October 1, 2000. The reader is cautioned that domestic violence is the subject of continuing legislative attention, so that statutory change is likely after this date, particularly in the area of personal protection orders.

Readers should also be mindful that the psychological and sociological aspects of domestic violence have only recently been the subject of scientific study. There is still much to discover about this difficult subject, and much remains controversial. A careful reader will thus remain alert for new information about the nature and causes of domestic violence that comes to light after the publication date of this Resource Book.

MJI is also grateful to the following persons, who allowed the author to interview them as she prepared the text: Hon. Carolyn A. Archbold from the 29th District Court, Wayne; Bruce Dempsey, David Gawron, Janice Herman, Lexie Inman, Taree Ream, James Turner, and Marti Van Haecke from the 14th Circuit Court, Muskegon; Frank Dvorak, Joellen Kranz, and Jean O'Hagen from the 30th Circuit Court, Lansing; Hon. Richard Halloran from the 3d Circuit Court, Detroit; Suzanne Hoseth and Hon. Charles H. Miel from the 8th Circuit Court, Ionia; Bernadine Lasher from Shelterhouse/Council on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault, Midland; Linda Marks from the Office of Child Support, Lansing; Barbara Olsen from Every Woman's Place, Muskegon; Hon. Gerald J. Supina from Ionia County Probate Court; Hon. Raymond P. Voet from the 64A District Court, Ionia.

Further thanks are owed Ms. Gail Krieger of the Michigan Resource Center on Domestic and Sexual Violence, Okemos, who provided assistance with the research for this book.

In addition to the Advisory Committee members, MJI Program Administrator Peter Stathakis reviewed the text of this Resource Book, along with the following employees of the State Court Administrative Office: Lesley Allen, Toni Beatty, Timothy Cole, James Covault, Pam Creighton, Linda Glover, Matthew Hanley, Bill Newhouse, Doug Van Epps, and Tara Verdonk. Cynthia Kruska, MJI Program Administrator, and Thomas Smith, MJI Research Attorney, assisted with editing the text.

Mary Ann McDaid, MJI Multimedia Development Specialist, was responsible for page layout, cover design, and coordination of reproduction and distribution. Lori Sheets, MJI Program Assistant, also assisted with distribution.

The artwork in this Resource Book is taken from a quilt made of fabric painted by women and children receiving services at Shelterhouse/Council on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault, Midland. MJI thanks Shelterhouse and its Director, Bernadine Lasher, for this very special contribution to the Resource Book.

The Michigan Judicial Institute was created in 1977 by the Michigan Supreme Court. MJI is responsible for providing educational programs and publications for Michigan judges and court personnel. In addition to formal seminar offerings, MJI is engaged in a broad range of publication and distance learning activities, services, and projects that are designed to enhance the professional skills of all those serving in the Michigan court system. MJI welcomes comments and suggestions. Please send them to: Michigan Judicial Institute, P.O. Box 30205, Lansing, MI 48909, (517) 334-7805.
